Subject: UPDATE! Review of San Jacinto River Waste Pits Superfund Site cleanup documents
Date: 12/06/2012 11:50 AM

Dear Community Members and Stakeholders-

The Galveston Bay Foundation (GBF) has updated our San Jacinto River Waste Pits Superfund Site webpage by adding Houston Advanced Research Center (HARC) summary review of the following San Jacinto River Waste Pits Superfund Site (SJRWP) cleanup document:

- October 2012 Public Health Assessment (prepared by Texas Department of State Health Services)

Exposure pathways were at the heart of many of the question at last night's EPA public meeting, so we hope you will find it useful. Please visit the webpage and click on "Findings" or just scroll down to the review as well as the original documents.

FYI - GBF and HARC are finalizing the date for our January 2013 public meeting. It may or may not be on January 16th. Will let you all know asap.

At the meeting, we will share our findings on the cleanup process, discuss how the Total Maximum Daily Load for Dioxin fits in with the SJRWP cleanup project, seafood consumption advisories and molluscan shellfish (oyster/clam/mussel) harvesting areas, listen to your concerns and answer your questions. We also welcome your suggestions for agenda topics. We will post agenda details on the webpage and notify you when the meeting is set.

Please share this e-mail with your family, friends, and other members of the community and encourage them to contact me to be added to the mailing list. On the webpage, we have listed expert contacts for you, but please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely-

Scott A. Jones
